PAY RETROACTIVITY—
The House is expected to agree to and send to the White House this week the Senate-approved amendment that would make the recent Government pay raise apply retroactive to about, 50,000 non-classified white collar employes who were the victims of a legislative oversight in the original measure. All other Federal classified and postal workers received retroactive pay raises to the first pay period after July 1.

The Senate-adopted amendment, added to the House bill providing group health and life insurance for District temporary teachers, also would give these 50,000 non-classified employes the July retroactive pay date. House Jeaders have agreed to accept the amendment.

Employes involved include those in National Security Agency, Central Inelligence Agency, Atomic Energy Commission, Tennessee Valley Authority and Government Printing Office, plus a big group of top engineers and scientists who are paid at agency-set rates.
